WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 16, 1865

The Mineral Wealth of our Mountains

[illegible] quantities in [illegible] precious metals. The exhaustion of the placer mines of California was succeeded by the [illegible] of golden sands [illegible] the great valley of the Columbia drawing [illegible] of those who make it a business [illegible] mineral wealth [illegible] but still [illegible] the mountains in the vicinity of places where gold has been found our country has been and is being explored with the most careful scrutiny while but little attention has hitherto been given to localities which lie near us and which promise to prove rich in the metals which we have been accustomed to go a long distance to obtain. Of late there has been considerable search in the Cascade mountains [illegible] and taking into consideration the ruggedness of the country and the want of knowledge of [illegible] geography it must be allowed that these explorers have been persevering and since they have brought to light several valuable discoveries which will without doubt, prepare the way for new enterprises of a similar character.

Not to speak particularly of the Santiam District at this time, though it may with propriety be said that that region promises as well as any other which has been more closely inspected [illegible] more extensively developed, we have thought it well to notice some discoveries that are being made elsewhere in the same mountain range. Some time ago a party discovered a promising ledge near the Table Rock, to the north of Mount Jefferson but we believe that no assay has yet been made [illegible]. Some two or three weeks since other parties discovered three more distinct ledges in the same vicinity. From the croppings of two of these ledges pieces of rock were brought down to be tested. By an assayer of this city the rock of one of them was pronounced to be worth $108 that of the other, $310 per ton. The rock yields a small amount of silver, but the greater portion of its value is derived from the gold it contains. We are informed that the country has every appearance of containing numerous ledges and it is not doubted that a more thorough examination will lead to the discovery of many valuable ones in that vicinity. Parties are now at work there for the purpose of ascertaining with more accuracy what the nature and extent of the ledges already discovered really are. If they are found to be as good as their owners have reason to expect, mills will be taken in next year to [illegible] them.

This new quartz district is situated near the head of the Molalla, between the Clackamas and the north fork of the Santiam. The branches of these two last named streams are interwoven together. The new discoveries are but a short distance from Table Rock, a very high spur of the Cascade mountains and which may be seen from almost any part of this valley. It is reckoned that the district is about fifty five miles from Oregon City, in a south easterly direction. It is, of course, difficult of access, but it has been ascertained that a good mountain road may be opened the whole way to it. Little can be done this year except to prove whether the ledges are valuable or not but if they turn out as well as they promise to do, they will be extensively worked next year.

The several discoveries that have recently been made in the Cascade mountains, establish the fact that gold exists there in quantities which will yet be a source of profit to Oregon. Only a very few places in the whole range have yet been examined, and the result already is the discovery of many ledges of great value. The way is now opened for a more extensive and careful examination of the mountains, and it is not to be doubted that they will be found rich in gold. There seems to be no reason why auriferous quartz should not be found in other places as well as in those already discovered. The mineral wealth of the mountains surrounding us is already beginning to be uncovered and we may reasonably expect it hereafter to add vastly to the prosperity of our State.

AN ENGLISHMAN ON THE FOURTH.—At the celebration of the Fourth of July at Honolulu, W. L. Green, Esq., Acting British Consul, was called on for a speech. He commenced by referring to the novelty of his position, in that he, a British subject, and a representative of his nation was called to address an American assembly on the anniversary of the day when the Colonies severed the political connections that bound them to the mother country. After adverting to their history since that time, and complimenting the Americans on the manner in which they had put down the gigantic rebellion, the orator spoke of the diplomatic correspondence now going on between the United States and Great Britain in relation to the depredations of British built pirates, and the chances for war between the two countries. When we consider the occasion, we must conclude that the speaker was a great wag and allow that his discourse was an extremely good thing. He concluded his speech as follows:

"I begin to think that war is not such a dreadful thing after all. Perhaps a war between England and the United States may not be such a bad thing—who knows? It may do some of us good—it may do you good—or it may do us good—we may thrash each other into mutual respect and we may then be better friends than ever we were—this alone would be a good result. Of one thing I, as an Englishman, should feel, and do feel proud and happy and that is that the war between England and the United States (if war there is to be) has been deferred—has been delayed till to-day—because now with your internal dissensions put down—with a splendid army and navy in the highest state of discipline—with tried leaders taught by experience, and confident from success, there would be some credit in giving you a good whipping."

SENSE OF DUTY. The San Francisco Free [illegible] denounces President Johnson as a murderer for not pardoning Mrs. Surratt. This "Democratic" organ says that if the woman "was guilty at all she was influenced by a sense of duty in what she did." This was the view Booth took of the atrocious deed. Almost his last words were "I thought I did my duty." To convince any one that the extremists of the "Democratic" party justify assassination as a political remedy, it is only necessary to notice the fact that they consider these murderers, acting under a sense of duty, to have committed no crime. We have never yet seen a word in a "Democratic" paper in favor of the execution of the assassins of Mr. Lincoln. The efforts of the entire party press were devoted to the object of shielding the murderers from punishment.

"Civil freedom has been assassinated while it slumbered in fancied security, justice has been made a mockery, liberty has been outraged, usurpation betrayed and every tradition of the people insulted and spurned."—Cadiz (Ohio) Sentinel.

Interpreted aright the foregoing means just this. Treason has been crushed, traitors punished and made infamous, the dissolution of the Union prevented and the chivalric knights of the lash taught that they can nevermore flourish their slave whips over the heads of the freemen of the North and intimidate them into submission and silence as was done years ago. That is what is the matter with the [illegible] and there [illegible], who with spaniel like fondness are whining for an opportunity to abase themselves as formerly before their masters the slave lords.

Boise and Owyhee

BOISE CITY, August 5, 1865.

[illegible] Many [illegible] here are anxious to get away and waiting for [illegible] some are [illegible] along and [illegible] well when multitudes would starve. But there are many [illegible] of all [illegible]. The great wonder is that they ever [illegible] men of [illegible] remark [illegible] engaged in a futile effort to make a raise at faro at five dollars a bet [illegible] Idaho life.

BOISE CITY.

This place is not very lively, and times are said to be dull with money scarce [illegible] business street which [illegible] appearance of commercial prosperity, but [illegible] that the place is thriving and bound to thrive. [illegible] seat of government may [illegible] removed. This [illegible] starting up stores in the [illegible] a stranger who has been traveling through mining regions where Sunday is the principal day. Next Monday is election day and just now the politicians are more than usually active. I see the names of several Oregonians on the Union ticket. Dr. Hart is nominated for Probate Judge. [illegible] for Prosecuting Attorney and [illegible]. The choice [illegible] the House. [illegible] the Democratic candidates are also from our State.

A WORD ABOUT THE INDIANS.

I last evening met Captain Borland just from a scout through the Burnt River country. He [illegible] the tracks of the parties who stole stock from Auburn, Clarke's Creek and Burnt River, and followed them only two days behind for eleven days until they took to the Malheur mountains when he had not force to pursue them. There were about thirty Indians in the whole raiding party who divided, and each drove off stock from different localities, coming from Auburn around Powder River and on to Burnt River.

Captain Borland says he has no doubt that white men followed and accompanied the expedition, as at different places where the thieves had made camp he found a boot track always the same, and no doubt belonging to some renegade that deserves worse than hanging. The fact is it requires a great number of troops in those mountains and Captain Borland is undoubtedly correct in saying that plenty of men for a fall and winter campaign, well handled in that section, will annihilate the savages, and secure peace in the future. I feel like harping on that Indian theme until I learn that efficient steps have been taken.

EMIGRATION, AC., AC.

During the day at least fifty wagons have gone by bound for the lower country, belonging to emigrants just arrived from over the plains. Most of them seem bound for Oregon and few of them offer to remain here. The stock is looking well and I think the majority of the new comers are of a good class of people. The general rumor or report is that crowds are coming and the news from the East shows that many thousands are still behind. We hear of considerable quartz machinery coming across also.

Our friend Reynolds of the Idaho Statesman has a good looking weekly just issued. The Statesman is evidently flourishing, and shines forth in new and handsome dress as a proof of it. Heretofore it has only been issued in tri-weekly numbers.

I hear of four teams heavily loaded with lumber bound for Owyhee from Auburn. So it appears that there is lumber enough to be furnished that country from abroad when its home supplies in some exhausted. Evidently the mills in Boise Basin will be glad to saw for a much less figure and lumber can be hauled to Owyhee from a country abounding in timber and furnished at less rates than they have ever paid.

I see Dr. Hawthorne just arrived from Owyhee, and looking unusually well. There is nothing new and important from that region. The great subject of interest to-day is the news brought up of the loss of the Brother Jonathan with many valuable lives. Such a disaster is felt far and near and every man seems to realize a personal affliction in the loss of persons well known and esteemed. I leave in the morning for South Boise and adjacent districts intending to give them a general visitation, but not feeling overwell to attempt the journey, having in fact been much indisposed for a week or two past.

THE "STATE RIGHTS DEMOCRAT."—We have received the first number of a paper published at Albany by Mr. Jas. O'Meara, bearing the above title. The outside is entirely given up to articles from the Ohio Crisis, New York Day Book, the Freeman's Journal and other papers of this vicious class; the inside of the number before us is occupied mainly with articles of a somewhat more temperate character, apparently written by Mr. O'Meara himself. The Democrat, however, presents the usual bundle of grievances, and cooks up again all the old stale accusations which have long been made against men who are blamed for being loyal. O'Meara is more discreet in his language than some of our Copperhead editors are, but his animus and Confederate bias are precisely the same as theirs. The State Rights Democrat is intending, we presume, to annihilate the Abolitionists and, as its name indicates, to re-establish the right of secession—a right which has lately been somewhat shaken and impaired. This new paper comes a little too late to save its style of "State Rights," since the Confederacy which was built on this system, went down some months ago.

JEFF. DAVIS.—From a late Eastern paper we get the following account of the manner in which Jeff. Davis is now treated in his prison. From the letter of a rebel soldier, which is appended, it will be seen that some of those who were led so far astray by this "Christian President," do not now have a very warm regard for him.

A gentleman just from Fortress Monroe reports that the health of Jeff. Davis is much better than it has been at any time during his incarceration. His meals are sent direct from the table of Dr. [illegible] by his daughter [illegible] by her detailed to the officer having him in charge. The Doctor is keeping an accurate journal of his professional interviews with Davis, which will hereafter throw some interesting rays of light on the imprisonment.

The following is a copy of a letter addressed "To his Excellency President Davis," and recently received by the commander of the fort:

MY DEAR FRIEND: You must by this time be nearly [illegible]. I send you the inclosed [illegible] and pay your fare to hell with it.

The inclosure consists of five dollars in Confederate money. The writer of the letter is an ex-rebel [illegible] heartless and a trifle profane. The letter serves to show the feelings of thousands of J. D.'s dupes and victims.

PHILANTHROPY DURING THE WAR.—A gentleman residing in New York has with great labor prepared a statement of the amount contributed by the American people for philanthropic purposes connected with the war, which is summed up as follows:

The total contributions of the States, cities and towns for the aid and relief of soldiers and their families, has amounted to over one hundred and eighty seven millions of dollars—$187,208,606.62; that the contributions of the citizens and [illegible] has amounted to over twenty four millions—$24,[illegible], that the contributions at the same time [illegible] 80.71, and that the contributions for the loss of sufferers by the riots of July, and white refugees have been $[illegible], making a grand total exclusive of the expenditures of the Government, of more than two hundred millions of dollars—$212,274,[illegible].

The [illegible] says that every rebel who desires to vote in Oregon at forthcoming elections ought to vote and [illegible] vote." We shall see.

HENRY FAILING Mayor

On the question of passing the Ordinance in accordance with the Charter in such cases provided

Mr. Schuyler stated that as he should vote for the Ordinance he wished to be understood that by doing so he was opposed to the article as being an established precedent. He was inclined to the expressed views of the Mayor, yet he favored the Ordinance, as its loss would jeopardize the important street improvements already in process of being made. His principal objection to the Ordinance was that the construction of the sewers called for more money than the city has now to pay. Thought that the Mayor did not wish to forestall the action of the Council, but was anxious that the policy should not be taken as a precedent for future considerations, but he has no fears about it as being finally adopted.

Mr. McCraken said he did not feel as well prepared as he should like to be to vote upon the Ordinance. He thought drainage a little different from other kinds of street improvement, however, as it not only benefitted the street now being improved, but others beyond it, and when built will answer to take off the surface water from the back part of the city, which would otherwise accumulate, and be forced to run across First and Front streets. The improvements being made were in danger of being jeopardized, unless sewers were constructed.

Mr. Clark made a statement in reference to certain of the cross streets which were not graded to the height of Front street as it was being improved, and without sewers would be two feet deep with water until spring after the commencement of the rainy season.

The Ordinance was adopted. Yeas 6, nays 0.

An Ordinance to provide for the time and manner of improving Front street from the south line of Morrison street to the north line of Pine street, was also returned [illegible], as it contained no provision for the drainage of the street, but as the same required no amendment, [illegible] of the above Ordinance having passed, it was adopted by the same vote.

A petition from E. M. Burton, asking for the use of a portion of Front street in building, was granted for thirty days.

Mr. [illegible] submitted a notice for publication, which [illegible] in another column, in reference to the removal of dirt, planks, and gravel on Front street between [illegible] and Pine streets.

On motion the Council adjourned.

ARREST OF JIMMY JONES.—Our city readers are all [illegible] with the schooner Jenny Jones, formerly plying [illegible] this city and Victoria, under command of Capt. [illegible] Jones. It will be remembered that Capt. Jones [illegible] a round voyage without any obstacle to [illegible] his realizing full profits. He has appeared in our United States Courts for infringements on the laws of Congress, but aside from temporary detentions of his vessel has never suffered any real loss. His errors in this [illegible] were more of the head than of the heart, and we were always disposed to believe that Jimmy never intended any real wrong—as the Courts held. His vessel at one time [illegible] on the sand spits at the mouth of the [illegible] and those on board were barely by Providence saved from a watery grave, the vessel as providentially got off. About the time of his quitting this trade, [illegible] was put into the schooner, and the propeller [illegible] was for some months afterwards employed [illegible]. Here a strong opposition was raised and [illegible] had bad luck. He was involved, and it finally [illegible] he was obliged to quit the country. He passed [illegible] many ordeals before getting away. He arrived in this city by the steamship Sierra Nevada on [illegible] evening last, leaving for the interior yesterday, we are informed. He called upon us before leaving looking as natural as life, and we have obtained from him the full conclusion of his adventures before leaving [illegible]. Our readers will remember the circumstances of his leaving Victoria, and crossing to Washington Territory, where the United States Marshal seized the propeller on a libel [illegible] from Port Townsend, of Victoria debts. When he left Olympia he felt compelled to take a sea voyage, and did so—his entire stores consisting of one sack of flour, one pound of tea, and two pounds of sugar. [illegible] chances on getting any more. Of fuel he had not enough to last forty miles. Placed in this [illegible] situation, Jimmy was favored by a combination of fortuitous events, which enabled him to steam for San Blas, Mexico. The vessel left thus from Port [illegible] in the night, while the Marshal was ashore in bed. Jimmy went first to Sandy Point, where he picked up a few cords of wood with which he proceeded to Nanaimo, expecting to meet no difficulty there in procuring coal and provisions; but the magistrate, William Franklin, warned him not to put one pound of coal on board, or he would seize the vessel, telling Jimmy that he was [illegible] actor, and that he could not fit him out [illegible], bought his provisions and put to sea, only to slip off two miles to an old deserted coal mine, [illegible] he engaged Indians to pack him about [illegible] of coal dust, which had lain there over two years. He then put off for the coast of British Columbia, north of [illegible] Inlet, to procure wood from the Indians and to mix with the coal dust, considering it no longer safe to [illegible] in these parts. Standing out about twenty miles [illegible], he fell in with a leaky sloop, having on board about $1,115 worth of provisions, just what Jimmy stood most in need of. The Captain of the sloop begged Jones to take him on board, to which proceeding Jimmy was in no way [illegible]. The propeller took the sloop in tow, having her crew on board, and in about half an hour she [illegible] so badly that she filled and went down, leaving Jimmy, her mast at the end of his line. The Jenny Jones, now fully manned and provisioned, proceeded to sea with the sloop's crew, to whom he paid wages and the sum of $924 for what provisions he used on the trip, which was made in 25 days, sailing most of the way with favorable winds. On reaching San Blas he obtained a freight for the French to Mazatlan with which men [illegible] him for their wages, one of whom, called Black Dutch Albert, of Port Townsend, claimed $1,000, and applied to the U. S. Consul to have the propeller stopped until he was paid, taking an oath that he had been run off with after seizure. But his claims being disputed, it was not believed, and the Jenny Jones was [illegible] there until [illegible] paid, and Jimmy stood by [illegible] the [illegible] soldiers [illegible] for that purpose. [illegible] for what [illegible] from the Mexicans [illegible] on the Jenny [illegible] again he got [illegible] treated by [illegible] of the District [illegible] but established [illegible] to be sent [illegible] detained [illegible] released [illegible] U. S. Marshal [illegible] was no offense against the laws [illegible]. Jimmy [illegible] and straighten up his affairs [illegible]. He feels himself under [illegible] money [illegible] at Mazatlan [illegible] from Victoria [illegible] San Francisco for his disinterested attentions while there, and would advise his Victoria friends that the Jenny Jones is daily expected in San Francisco [illegible] which they can apply [illegible] spend time fruitlessly after him, as he has [illegible] anything left from his trouble.

A REVERSE.—Some of those of our citizens who have heretofore been ardently opposed to the new City Charter which forces street improvements [illegible] fearful that it will be found unconstitutional. They are its warmest friends! The reaction is felt in consequence of the new form system of taxation, which will compel a man owning $20,000 or $30,000 on Front street to pay an annual tax [illegible] for the improvement of every other street in the city. It matters little how this question is finally disposed of, one thing is quite certain, to build up a city and become prosperous, and worthy the name of a city, requires money and less wrangling. If we long has it been since ninety-nine in every hundred of us were opposed to the uniform system. [illegible] In case the Charter is declared unconstitutional will private enterprise do anything for the city? We are doubtful about the matter.

THE LADIES' SOCIETY [illegible]

A [illegible] Mr. Charles B[illegible] was [illegible] yesterday [illegible]

[illegible]

We gather the following from the [illegible] of Albany:

Our farmers are generally very busily occupied in harvesting and the fine good weather has been vouchsafed them in their work. The average yield is fully up to that of last year, we are told, of fall sown wheat, notwithstanding the dull prospect of a month or two ago. Spring sown grain has fallen quite short, however. Still the supply of every sort of grain will be abundant.

Over a dozen new buildings are going up in town, both dwellings and stores, and yet there will be put up in the coming season. There is not, withstanding, not a vacant store nor untenanted dwelling to be had in the place. Albany is growing more rapidly and is more flourishing condition than any town on the upper Willamette.

The Steam Flouring Mill enterprise is being clearly pushed on towards completion. When finished and ready for milling, the owners intend to make in it the best quality of flour. Linn county can readily supply the best of wheat to enable them to do this.

The new Court House edifice is now nearly finished. The workmen are engaged in putting up the massive columns in front, and in giving the finishing touch to the whole building. It is beyond question the finest public edifice in Oregon.

A FRAGRANT BREATH AND PEARLY TEETH—Are easily attained, and those who fail to avail themselves of the means should not complain when accused of gross neglect. The Sozodont will speedily eradicate the cause of a foul breath, beautifying and preserving the teeth to the oldest age.

Sold by all Druggists.

End of the Assassins

...we may state, with entire propriety that the most able woman expressed the most emphatic desire for prayer and holy consolation. Desirous of [illegible] her mind free of all worldly affairs she [illegible] the disposition she wished made of her property and talked long and earnestly of her children and their future prospects. [illegible] she naturally entertained [illegible] bitterness. [illegible] overcome, after having relieved her mind about him and his conduct and finally [illegible]. What the feelings [illegible] must be to-day, we cannot well imagine. [illegible] Mrs. Surratt's friends [illegible] testimony would save her [illegible] possibilities of the future would seem more preferable to life and the certain remorse and disgrace attending it here.

As the night wore on, Mrs. Surratt, who had been removed from the larger room where she had been confined since her illness began to [illegible] on her narrow bed. She was really ill and the kind offices of the physician were frequently needed. Conscious of the approach of day she betook herself again to the preparation of her soul for its infinite journey. She rallied mentally and physically, and determined evidently to bear and brave the scaffold. Her daughter whose faithful service has been most touching in its constancy had done all she could. The President had been seen. Judge Holt had been visited. To both of them the most fervent appeals, inspired by a filial love as devoted as it was disinterested had been presented, but in vain. Five of the members of the Court had joined in a recommendation for commutation to imprisonment for life, and it was understood that the entire Court concurred in the same but this too, was in vain. These facts the heart broken daughter had communicated to her sentenced mother and as she bent her head upon her neck she bathed her shoulders with tears of unfeigned grief and sympathy.

Seemingly convinced of the utter hopelessness of her situation and apparently desirous of quieting the exceedingly demonstrative outbursts of her daughter, Mrs. Surratt rose from her bed and again betook herself to her devotional exercises. It may seem strange that this woman who was proven to know all about the projected assassination, who kept open house for the scoundrels who planned and the villains who did the deed, who insisted that she had never seen and never knew Payne and who said, when informed of her sentence, "I had no hand in the murder of the President," should seem so calm and consistent in her preparation for death. Nevertheless the fact is, that after turning her back upon hope, she gave herself with apparent sincerity and with heartiness to prayer and communion, the effect of which it is not for us to judge.

This morning, however, the counsel of Mrs. Surratt, Aiken and Clampitt, who had determined to leave no stone unturned to effect her release or if not that a detention in the execution of sentence, went at an early hour before Judge Wylie of the Supreme Court of this city and applied for a writ of habeas corpus, directed to Major General Hancock who had charge of the prison and control of the prisoners commanding him to bring into the Court the body of Mary E. Surratt.

After hearing the argument the Judge [illegible] upon the petition:

Let the writ issue as prayed, returnable before the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia, now sitting, at the hour of ten o'clock A. M., this 7th day of July 1865.

ANDREW WYLIE

July 7 1865 at three o'clock A. M.

The writ was then formally issued and the Marshal of the District was directed to serve it. The news spread like wildfire and all sorts of reports were circulated throughout the city. The hotels swarmed with talkative people, every one of whom had the latest news, and was only too ready to communicate it to his neighbor. "Mrs. Surratt is pardoned," "She is not expected to live," "Her sentence has been commuted." Every one had his pet theory, but it concerned Mrs. Surratt alone—the fate of the others was certain.

THE RETURN

was ordered at ten o'clock, and at the hour the Court room was thronged with people interested to know the result. The Marshal in response to a question by the Court stated that Major General Hancock had not yet appeared, although it was past the hour.

After sundry criticisms and objections to the proceedings by the District Attorney, the counsel for Mrs. Surratt stated that if his client was guilty of any crime she was amenable to the Court, a Court which was competent to take cognizance of the same and not to a military tribunal.

The District Attorney Carrington [illegible] the certificate of the Marshal stating that he had served the writ on General Hancock, at [illegible]

After these remarks the Court proceeded with the trial of Miss Harris, which was continued

Attorney General Speed. It may not be out of place for me to say that this whole subject has, of course, had the most earnest and anxious consideration of the Executive and of the war making power of the Government. Every man upon reflection and particularly every lawyer knows that war cannot be fought by due process of law, and armies cannot be maintained by due process of law; there must be armies, there must be battles of war, and war and the laws of war and usage permits battles to be fought, permits human life to be taken without the judgment of the Court and without the process of the Court, permits prisoners to be taken and prisoners to be held, and your honor will not undertake to discharge them although the Constitution says that human life shall not be taken, nor man be deprived of his liberty or property without due process of law. Conflict of necessity comes when war comes between the Executive and judicial. If the war power in war does not transcend the civil, war is made for the maintenance of the civil [illegible] when peace comes, for the purpose of giving us the benefit of the civil. This country is now in the midst of a great war, and the Commander in Chief of the armies of the United States was slain in the discharge of his duties, and if the armies of the United States dare not under the laws of war protect its Commander in Chief from assassination, and if the laws and usages of war cannot protect by military law the Commander in Chief from assassination and destruction what has the Government come to? The thing appears to me to be too plain for consideration but at your Honor [illegible] end of the case, I only make these remarks for the purpose of satisfying your Honor that we have anxiously, and I think, most naturally considered the matter, giving your Honor credit for having done what you ought to be your duty in this matter, and I am very glad to hear that your Honor gives us credit for having done what we have done and regarded it to be our duty to the Court.

General Hancock then asked leave to retire, which was granted, and he left in company with Attorney General Speed.

This settled the case so far as Mrs. Surratt was concerned, and word was at once sent to her that all hope was gone.

Concerning Payne, or Powell as he called himself, there has been a great deal of unnecessary mystery and [illegible]. His name so far as the public is concerned, is Lewis Payne, and if [illegible] that he hid the honest name of a respectable family the fact is one to his credit, but of that no one cares. He is dead, gone to face the bar of a higher tribunal than that which just judged him and with the future we have naught to do. The cool villainy, the absolute savagery of the fellow has been consistent with the atrocity of his crime, until with singular [illegible] Payne seems to have been [illegible] person with an exceedingly hard head and apparently no heart. No mere man would or could have deliberately cut and slashed the face of a sick and dying sufferer, it required the instinct of a demon and the temper of a brute to suggest and execute such a project. He was a species of [illegible] Mrs. Surratt's house.

Throughout the trial he had been unmoved. [illegible]

[illegible]

Perhaps [illegible]

George A. Atzerodt was a coward mentally, morally and physically. He failed to grasp the magnitude of the conspiracy [illegible] any one care a rap whether he lived or died. During the trial he was unconcerned since his imprisonment was peevish and full of complaints and on the night before his death he was restless and uneasy. He could not eat at all and unlike Payne had no appetite. He was a poor miserable fellow and his death amounted to no more than did his life.

The morning of this day appeared and with it came thousands of people from the town to see the execution. They might as well have come to see George Washington [illegible]. Nearly every person in any way connected with the Government was bored and annoyed by applications for passes. [illegible] before eleven o'clock and most of them failing to receive the desired pass the curious wended their way to the arsenal grounds two miles distant [illegible] to renew their importunities. When we arrived at the latter place, about ten o'clock the streets and avenues were blocked up by hundreds of vehicles and probably two thousand [illegible] whose only reward for their expense and labor was a peep at the prison walls in the distance. Four and a half street, the thoroughfare leading directly to the arsenal was strongly and thickly guarded from Pennsylvania avenue to the arsenal [illegible] the entrance to the latter and completely surrounding it were numerous soldiers on guard. Entering the enclosure we found several regiments on duty [illegible] corps—scattered here and there between the gates and the prison.

Pedestrians were flocking rapidly towards the building, and when we entered the latter we found already several hundred persons—a mixed assembly of civilians and military men. We learned that none of the prisoners had slept during the past night save Payne and Harrold both of whom had a sound quiet rest of about two hours. None of them had eaten anything scarcely except Payne, who partook heartily of breakfast. During the night opiates had been given Mrs. Surratt to procure rest but without avail. The spiritual advisers and friends of the condemned left the prison shortly after eleven o'clock last night and did not return until this morning, except Miss Surratt who remained with her mother [illegible] None [illegible] could have been expected from either Payne, Harrold or Atzerodt, who had already from time to time given in the main probably the truthful account of their relations to the bloody tragedy in which they were participants. Mrs. Surratt was the only one remaining who had not acknowledged the full measure of her guilt. She, it was rumored had made a full confession to her confessor, but on inquiry we found her confession in preparation for receiving the Sacrament was confined with [illegible] of guilt [illegible] She had [illegible] the hour of her execution [illegible] and she had apparently lost sight of her own interest [illegible] her daughter of whom she constantly talked and repeatedly, frantically and with wringing of hands asked "What will become of her?" "what will be Anna's fate?"

STATEMENT OF PAYNE.

Payne last evening informed Colonel Dodd who has had charge of the prisoners, that so far as he knew Mrs. Surratt had nothing to do with the plot of assassination. Certainly he had never said a word to her on the subject nor had any of his co-conspirators mentioned her in connection with the matter. She may have known what was going on, but to him she never disclosed her knowledge by word or act. That immediately after he had made the murderous attack upon Seward, he felt that he had done wrong, and he had wandered around and slept in the woods that night, frequently feeling inclined to [illegible] That when finally he was by hunger and fatigue driven to Mrs. Surratt's house he had doubts about his reception there and whether she would not give him up to the officers of the law for punishment. [illegible] Harrold says in the original plot he was [illegible] to turn off the gas in the theater and he had once rehearsed the work with Booth, that, however on the night of the assassination he was [illegible] to be in waiting near the Navy yard bridge to assist Booth in his escape.

These statements embrace substantially all the [illegible]

[illegible]

It was twenty five minutes past one o'clock. The officer in charge [illegible] the drop fell and [illegible] of the criminals were suspended [illegible]

[illegible] backward and forward [illegible] Mrs. Surratt appeared to suffer very little. Payne and Harrold [illegible]

After the lapse of ten minutes, the medical officers, Surgeon Woodward, U. S. A., Dr. Otis, U. S. A., and Dr. Porter, U. S. A., and surgeons of the post examined severally the bodies [illegible] At about four o'clock the bodies were placed in the coffins and buried.

The soldiers who were required to let fall the trap of the scaffold are of Company F, Fourteenth Veteran Reserves. They were chosen by the Commander of that regiment, who, without making known what was his purpose, required four able bodied men of the regiment to be selected from the left of the line to perform a special and important duty. The selection was accordingly made before the service to be performed became known to the members of the regiment.

Mudd, Arnold, O'Laughlin and Spangler will probably be sent to the penitentiary to-morrow.

ALLEN'S

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

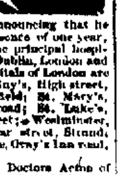
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,



617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Comb Place, Paddington; St. Luke's, old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary; Charing Cross, Agar street, Strand, London; Whitechapel road, Royal Free, Gray's Inn road, King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage [illegible] In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these terrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry [illegible] fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and reliable mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicine promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, by [illegible] sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
